

Beck & Jørgensen A/S is looking for an intern with a strong interest in ESG and sustainability.

Are you passionate about sustainability and ESG (Environmental, Social, and Governance)? Do you want to gain hands-on experience in a manufacturing company with a strong environmental profile? We are looking for an engaged student with an interest in supplier management to join our environmental department in the fall of 2025 and contribute to our ESG initiatives.

Beck & Jørgensen A/S is a Danish company with more than 100 years of experience in developing and producing paint for professional painters. We focus on developing products that meet the increasing environmental demands. As a result of these efforts, we are continuously developing more "green" products, which are awarded the European eco-label. Additionally, we have a clearly defined environmental policy and are certified according to DS/EN ISO 14001 for environmental management and DS/ISO 45001 for occupational health and safety.

Your role

As an intern you will support initiatives aimed at improving our ESG performance, with a particular focus on suppliers. You will work closely with our ESG specialist and procurement department.

Your tasks will include:

- Contributing to and assisting in the development of stakeholder engagement mechanisms.
- Collaborating with suppliers to understand their challenges and identify partnership opportunities.
- Conducting data analysis of stakeholder engagement results.
- Supporting internal departments, suppliers, and customers with ESG-related inquiries and sustainability reporting initiatives.
- There is also an opportunity to get involved in other aspects of ESG work, depending on your interests.

Your profile

We imagine that you are currently pursuing a higher education degree in a relevant field such as environmental management, engineering, organizational development, supplier management, or a similar area. However, we encourage everyone to apply, regardless of their field of study.

We are looking for someone who:

- Has academic knowledge or a strong interest in the green transition and sustainability, particularly working with the ESG agenda.
- Understands value chain collaboration and compliance with legislation.
- Possesses strong analytical skills and a desire to apply theory in practice.
- Has excellent communication skills and is comfortable engaging in dialogue with stakeholders.
- Full proficiency in English, Danish is not a requirement but considered an advantage.

In addition to contributing to existing projects, you will have the flexibility to tailor the scope of your work to your personal interests and academic goals. We aim to provide an internship that supports both your professional development and B&J's sustainability ambitions.

What We Offer:

- Duration: 4-5 months (one semester) as part of your studies, 1-2 days per week.
- Start: September 2025.
- Location: Søborg (north of Copenhagen).
- Flexible working hours.
